UAB to adopt i>clicker as its institutionally-supported audience response system

Clickers can be a valuable tool for student engagement and assessment in large class environments, and also have applications in smaller classes. The goal of adopting a single system on an institution-wide basis is to ensure thorough and consistent support for faculty and to ensure that students get maximum value from their clicker purchase. More information is online.

UAB art grad has works on show at the Birmingham Civil Rights Institute

Artist Celestia Morgan is looking forward now that she graduated from UAB this past Saturday with a bachelor's degree in studio art, but it is in looking back that she finds her inspiration. The Birmingham native is a photographer whose primary style is retrospective imagery; she also creates sculpture. The Birmingham Civil Rights Institute now is highlighting Morgan's two most recent photographic series, "Family Recipe" and "In Retrospect."

Psychology award given to, then named for, neuroscience major

UAB freshman Amy Stewart, a neuroscience major and member of the University Honors Program, won the top award for PY101 Introductory to Psychology — and now the honor will be named for her. Stewart, who is from Madison, is the only student in a class of 600 to earn a perfect score on every exam.

Respiratory Therapists represented at international congress

Recent Respiratory Therapy graduate Tadashia (Jabril) Cooper presented an abstract at the American Association for Respiratory Care International Congress in New Orleans in November. This Open Forum session involved a poster presentation based on the abstract followed by a podium summary with Q & A.

WBHM says thank you

WBHM 90.3 FM would like to thank everyone for a great year of public radio in North Central Alabama, supported by listeners like you. The station looks forward to continuing to bring you programming that matters in 2013. If you were unable to give during this past week's year-end drive, you still may do so at wbhm.org. WBHM is a listener-supported

StoryCorp Griot opening day at UAB Jan. 17, 2013

An open house for the new Recording Booth at the UAB College of Arts and Sciences Digital Media Commons will be held from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jan. 17 in Heritage Hall. The open house will feature StoryCorp interviews with African-American community members. These stories are part of the StoryCorp's Griot initiative, ensuring that the voices, experiences, and life stories of African Americans will be preserved and presented with dignity. The interviews were edited by students from the UAB course Digital Story Telling/Oral History.

UAB Music to present ♦Songs of Freedom♦ world premiere concert Jan. 19, 2013

Under the direction of UAB Music's Brian Kittredge, the UAB Honor Choir will present "Songs of Freedom" Saturday, Jan. 19, 2013, at 3 p.m. in UAB's Alys Stephens Center. The concert will feature a world premiere of "The Emancipation Project," a series of compositions by composers Glenn McClure and Michael Trotta, to commemorate the occasion. It will be live-streamed to Ghana, Penn State and Virginia Wesleyan, and UAB music students then will present the work at Penn State and Virginia Wesleyan. This is the first musical event in the UAB College of Arts and Sciences' Civil Rights Commemorative Series. For a complete listing of those events, visit www.uab.edu/civilrights. To learn more about UAB's overall involvement in the commemoration, visit www.uab.edu/50yearsforward.
